

Hurricane Matthew Resilient Redevelopment Planning Hyde County

The Disaster Recovery Act of 2016 (Session Law 2016-124) directed North Carolina Emergency Management (NCEM) to facilitate and oversee the generation of Resilient Redevelopment Plans for the 50 counties and municipalities impacted by Hurricane Matthew and receiving federal declarations. The objectives of the effort are to (1) develop strategic, resilient redevelopment plans / actions; and (2) define any unmet funding requirements needed to implement such actions after taking into account other funding sources. The effort, and resulting resilient redevelopment plans, will be the foundation for any supplemental funding received through Congress, the North Carolina General Assembly, and other funding sources. These plans will also provide the foundation for the state's Recovery Action Plan that is required by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development before the state can expend the funding received from the Community Development Block Grant – Disaster Relief (CDBG-DR) program.

NCEM has already assembled a wealth of data, resources, and technical expertise from state agencies, the private sector, and the UNC system to support the development of innovative best practice strategies that might be implemented. The focus areas of these strategies will be (1) residential housing and rental stock; (2) infrastructure; (3) ecosystem; and (4) jobs, business, and economic growth. The UNC-CH will be coordinating and collaborating with this effort as it provides expertise to some of the hardest hit communities that do not have capacity.

NCEM will be leveraging efficient, interactive technologies such as geographic information systems, SharePoint, and the Internet to enable real-time, robust analysis, local government interaction and public input. Information on the entire planning process will be available online at rebuild.nc.gov.

Hyde County

The planning process will be a highly collaborative effort and will entail three robust rounds of discovery, analysis, collaboration and interaction with Hyde County officials, staff, municipal leaders and the public on damage, needs, and strategies. These rounds will entail on-site meetings and discussion with subject matter experts and planners. The three meetings will take place at a location of your choosing in Hyde County and will include:

- Meeting 1: Validation and/or discovery of data pertaining to damage and impacts
- Meeting 2: Construction, review, and feedback on first drafts of resilient redevelopment strategies
- Meeting 3: Refinement, feedback, and finalization of draft resilient redevelopment strategies

These plans will be delivered to the North Carolina General Assembly by May 1, 2017
