Bullying Definition

Bullying is unwanted, aggressive behavior among school aged children that involves a real or perceived power imbalance. The behavior is repeated, or has the potential to be repeated, over time. Both kids who are bullied and who bully others may have serious, lasting problems.

In order to be considered bullying, the behavior must be aggressive and include:

An Imbalance of Power: Kids who bully use their power—such as physical strength, access to embarrassing information, or popularity—to control or harm others. Power imbalances can change over time and in different situations, even if they involve the same people.

Repetition: Bullying behaviors happen more than once or have the potential to happen more than once.

Bullying includes actions such as making threats, spreading rumors, attacking someone physically or verbally, and excluding someone from a group on purpose.

Types of Bullying

There are three types of bullying:

Verbal bullying is saying or writing mean things.

Verbal bullying includes: Teasing, name-calling, inappropriate sexual comments, taunting, threatening to cause harm.

Social bullying, sometimes referred to as relational bullying, involves hurting someone's reputation or relationships. Social bullying includes: Leaving someone out on purpose, telling other children not to be friends with someone, spreading rumors about someone, embarrassing someone in public.

Physical bullying involves hurting a person's body or possessions. Physical bullying includes: Hitting/kicking/pinching, spitting, tripping/pushing, taking or breaking someone's things, making mean or rude hand gestures.

Where and When Bullying Happens

Bullying can occur during or after school hours. While most reported bullying happens in the school building, a significant percentage also happens in places like on the playground or the bus. It can also happen travelling to or from school, in the youth's neighborhood, or on the Internet.

Frequency of Bullying

There are two sources of federally collected data on youth bullying:

The 2011 Youth Risk Behavior Surveillance System (Centers for Disease Control and Prevention) indicates that, nationwide, 20% of students in grades 9–12 experienced bullying.

The 2008–2009 School Crime Supplement (National Center for Education Statistics and Bureau of Justice Statistics) indicates that, nationwide, 28% of students in grades 6–12 experienced bullying.

NO MORE

WE SAY NO MORE. TOGETHER WE CAN END DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AND SEXUAL ASSAULT.

The person you confide in most at work. The girl in your study group. The guy you play basketball with. Your teenager's best friend. We all know someone who has been affected by domestic violence and sexual assault.

Now, for the first time, every major organization in the country that works on these issues has come together to raise awareness and get everyone involved. Called NO MORE, this symbol stands for the hope we all feel that domestic violence and sexual assault can be eradicated in our lifetime.

Use NO MORE:

- Wear it on a t-shirt or button.
- Make and sell your own products to support local shelters and hotlines.
- Share it on Facebook and Pinterest.
- Tweet about it.
- Highlight it on your company's website.
- Incorporate it into events at your office, on your college campus or in your child's school.

There are hundreds of ways you can help bring NO MORE to life!

With every new supporter, we are closer to being part of a society where no one will stand for this violence and where no one will ever have to be a victim.
